

If You Want to Save Energy

Raise Your Hand.

Direct Energy's commitment to saving energy extends beyond the walls of homes and businesses—it encompasses communities.

By sponsoring the Alliance to Save Energy's "Green Schools" Program, Direct Energy will help 16 Pennsylvania schools cut energy costs by 5 to 15 percent. This two-year program will educate and empower students, teachers and staff members to reduce their school's energy costs through small, individual actions.

The best part? These savings won't just result in additional educational and enrichment opportunities, but translate into experiences that students will carry into their homes and communities.
